Proudly supported by WARNERS MOTOR GROUP
Welcome

It seems a long time since I wrote my first introduction to The Roses’ brochure back in 2006, and it feels particularly poignant to now be writing my last.

I will be passing the baton of running this extraordinary venue to my successor Sharon Casey, who starts at The Roses in early March.

In my role as Director at The Roses and also as an assessor for The Arts Council of England, I see many theatre venues and shows all over the country, and I can quite confidently say The Roses stands out and is very special indeed.

Special because of the wonderful work that we are able to show, the vast array of films from all over the world, the incredible work that we do in the community.

Special also because of how hard the staff, volunteers and board work here to get things right, and special because of you, the audience, who have shown such loyalty and support to your venue over the years.

Thank you for that support and I know Sharon would join me in hoping you will enjoy many evenings of great entertainment at The Roses in the months and years ahead.

Deborah Rees, Director

A message from Sharon Casey:
“I am extremely excited to be joining The Roses. I aim to continue to build on the success that the organisation has enjoyed under my predecessor Deborah Rees and very much look forward to getting to know you all”

Steve Tilston & Jez Lowe

Steve Tilston and Jez Lowe are two of the UK’s finest singers, songwriters and guitarists. They have performed together successfully on previous occasions but this is the first time they have written songs together, a radical change for two such singular artists. The title of their upcoming album, The Janus Game, takes its name from the ancient Roman god, Janus, the god of beginnings, gates, transitions, time, doorways, passages, and endings. He is usually depicted as having two faces on the same body but pointing in opposite directions, since he looks to the future and to the past. Steve and Jez’s music does that too, looking back at the past to extract the best ideas but also to the future to let the music develop anew.

Feast Of Fiddles

Feast Of Fiddles embarks on its 24th annual tour to coincide with the release of their seventh CD. The band that has been variously likened to a “group of geography teachers” or “Bellowhead with bus passes!” doesn’t seem to be slowing down. It all started at a folk club but has become a folk-rock institution.

Typically, fiddlers Peter Knight (Steeleye Span), Chris Leslie (Fairport Convention), Phil Beer (Show of Hands), Brian McNeill (Battlefield Band), Ian Cutler (Bully Wee), Tom Leary (Lindisfarne) and Garry Blakeley (Band of Two) add the large range of fiddle playing styles to the rock back-line of guitars, keyboards, sax and accordion – all held together by legendary drummer Dave Mattacks.

Tweedy’s Lost Property

Not knowing who he is anymore, Tweedy gets a job in a Lost Property Office to try and find himself. The consequences of attempting to run the office are hilarious - the lost property in his possession seems to develop lives of their own and allied with his own body rebelling against him he is constantly prevented from answering the ringing telephone. In this one man, family show, Tweedy illustrates an impressive repertoire of comedic talents which have made him one of the most respected and popular clowns the country currently has to offer.

Noel & Gertie

Noel & Gertie is a warm and witty musical comedy based on the legendary friendship and professional collaboration of actor, playwright and songwriter Noel Coward and the alluring and charismatic actress Gertrude Lawrence.

A major revival of Sheridan Morley’s hit play that originally ran in the West End for nine years, it is affectionately crafted from diaries and letters between a pair who epitomised an era of sophistication and elegance.

Featuring songs, sketches and snippets of scenes, the production has the entrancing effect of accurately portraying the relationship of this extraordinary duo, inseparable until Gertrude’s premature death, which left a large void in “the Master’s” life.

Coope Boyes & Simpson

In 1993, three blokes from South Yorkshire and Derbyshire, with a name like a firm of solicitors, released an album of a cappella songs full of social comment and (in the words of Folk Roots) ‘harmonies you could chew’.

They were, of course, Coope Boyes and Simpson, and the album was Funny Old World. 24 years later, they have released what will be their final studio album. Coda is a collection of songs, mainly self-penned or drawn from the tradition, covering issues such as refugees, Iraq and climate change.

With an anger undimmed and wry humour firmly intact, Coope Boyes and Simpson are returning to their roots and completing the circle that started with Funny Old World.

Mobile

A Paper Birds Production
Co-commissioned by Live Theatre and The Marlowe Theatre

We are taught from a young age to aim high, to reach for the stars, to want more, to climb the social ladder. But as we surge forward, grappling for university places and promotions, what are we leaving behind? And from our ladder in the stars, if we look back, what do we see?

Mobile is The Paper Birds’ second show in a trilogy about class in modern Britain. An intimate 40-minute theatre show set in a caravan, based on interviews conducted in communities across the UK, exploring our sense of home, belonging, aspiration, and the realities of social mobility.

Powerful true stories and dreams for the future are revealed through video projection, recorded interviews, original music and interactions with a performer.

As a result, their records have a timeless quality and, some 55 years on with original front man Paul Jones, The Manfreds will be performing many of their hits including ‘Do Wah Diddy Diddy’, one of the most popular and instantly recognisable songs of the 60’s, along with a mix of Jazz and Blues covers from their new album ‘Makin’ Tracks’.

Paul Jones, with his unique harmonica sound, will be joined by Mike Hugg on keyboards, Tom McGuinness on guitar, Rob Townsend on drums, Marcus Cliffe on bass, and Simon Currie on saxophone/flute.

This brand new production by choreographer Yuri Possokhov is a tragic poetic journey that can only be performed by a dancer of his calibre. Pechorin is adapted from Mikhail Lermontov’s literary masterpiece, on the larger-than-life hero of this corrupt society. Shakespeare’s gory revenge tragedy presents us with murder as entertainment, as the body count piles up, poses questions about the nature of sexuality, family, class and society. Blanche McIntyre returns to the RSC to direct Shakespeare’s epic political tragedy, as the race to claim the empire spirals out of control. Caesar returns from war, all-conquering, but mutiny is rumbling through the corridors of power. The Rome season in the Royal Shakespeare Theatre opens with the politics of spin and betrayal turning to violence.

Wednesday 26 April 7pm

Antony & Cleopatra
Iqbal Khan directs Shakespeare’s tragedy of love and duty, picking up the story where Julius Caesar ends. Following Caesar’s assassination, Mark Antony has reached the heights of power. Now he has neglected his empire for a life of decadent seduction with his mistress, Cleopatra, Queen of Egypt. Torn between love and duty, Antony’s military brilliance deserts him, and his passion leads the lovers to their tragic end.

Wednesday 24 May 7pm

Titus Andronicus
The decay of Rome reaches violent depths in Shakespeare’s most bloody play. Titus is a ruler exhausted by war and loss, who relinquishes power but leaves Rome in disorder. Rape, cannibalism and severed body parts fill the moral void at the heart of this corrupt society. Shakespeare’s gory revenge tragedy presents us with murder as entertainment, and, as the body count piles up, poses questions about the nature of sexuality, family, class and society. Blanche McIntyre returns to the RSC to direct Shakespeare’s brutal revenge tragedy after her debut directing The Two Noble Kinsmen (2016).
